West London locals should be a cock-a-hoop that this unpretentious Indian has pitched up on their doorstep - it deserves to be packed out nightly. Interiors keep it simple: it's the authentic Indian street food that wows.

Vegetarian and meat curries impress but, better still opt for a selection of sharing starters and let the kitchen walk you through Indi's famous street markets, from Chowpatty to Aminabad. The Likes of aloo tikki with chole (spiced potato cakes on a chickpea masala), baby fenugreek leaf bhajia, a first-rate chicken tikka selection, and marinated lamb-leg steaks slow-cooked on a limestone are as authentic Indian food as you will find outside the subcontinent. Wines from £14
